

VILLAGE GLEN COMMONS

A NEW BOARDING SCHOOL OPTION

Designed for TEENS with ASPERGER'S DISORDER
and HIGH FUNCTIONING AUTISM

Village Glen Commons is a therapeutic residential program for adolescents with challenges in the areas of socialization, communication, and peer relations including those with Asperger's Disorder, high functioning autism, nonverbal learning disabilities and other related disorders. The program offers individualized intensive treatment based on the latest research in the field, provided in a nurturing, therapeutic environment.

THE PROGRAM FEATURES

- Integrated education at one of The Help Group's renowned schools
- Structured daily schedule promoting a consistent and predictable environment
- Emphasis on improvement in social communication and development of "theory of mind"
- Daily focus on social skills using a fully contextualized social skills curriculum
- Daily focus on independent living skills
- Assessment of sensory needs and improvement in effective sensory processing
- Individualized treatment planning focused on building strengths through individual, family, group, and community therapy
- Structured positive behavioral management programs
- Interventions addressing emotional regulation
- Ongoing parent education, training, and support
- Rich recreational programming in vibrant Los Angeles
- Building on The Help Group's more than 25 years of experience providing residential treatment and educating children with autism spectrum disorders

For additional information, please contact
Jessica Romeyn, PsyD, Clinical Director, at 818.267.2624
15339 Saticoy St. ▪ Van Nuys, California 91406

www.thehelpgroup.org

